Gas System Storage Tank To Arrive This Week

With its 25,000-gallon, 72-foot storage tank expected in Vulcan on Thursday, Central Gas Utilities (Vulcan) Limited on Tuesday announced the appointment of two well-known local citizens to the company's board of directors. They are Maxwell R. Morrison, O. B.E., Chrysler and Massey-Harris dealer for Vulcan district, and John M. Janison, barrister and solicitor.

While the Vulcan gas air-mix plant and distributing system has been financed by the parent company, Central Gas Utilities Ltd., the Vulcan subsidiary was incorporated to carry on the local development and provide an opportunity for Vulcan residents to invest in their own utility, it was explained in a news release Wednesday.

Offering of $100,000 worth of bonds bearing 5 percent interest is announced in an advertisement by the company's fiscal agents, Laurence B. Gibson Investments Limited, Calgary, in this issue of the Advocate. Representatives will be in Vulcan for the next ten days to discuss details with investors interested in the local utility concern's investment prospects, it was announced.

Held up by strikes, manufacturing difficulties and shipping problems, the big storage tank, which has been expected almost daily since the first of this year, left Vancouver on three flat cars early this week, and should reach Vulcan Thursday morning, after being re-routed from Calgary Wednesday. It would take from ten days to two weeks to install all necessary equipment, according to J. M. Pryde, president of Utility Engineering, who were awarded the general installation contract.

The tank, which is 72 feet long and 9 feet in diameter, weighs 42 tons and has a capacity of 25,000 imperial water gallons. When Vulcan is being supplied with gas at the present estimated maximum, the tank's capacity will provide for several months' supply. It would be kept filled by Western Propane Limited under a long-term contract.

As soon as tanks and air-mix equipment are set up and ready for operation, the gas mains which were laid last year will be tied into the system, and it will be ready for service. Crews to complete, test and certify customer installations, the Advocate was told. Present plans by company officials are to have official opening ceremonies as soon as gas can be piped into the first home or business installation, probably in less than a month.

In addition to the local men, other directors are Edgar C. Robinson, Calgary, president; Laurence B. Gibson, Calgary investment dealer and president of the

Mossleigh Students Honor Curlers

The Mossleigh Students' Union sponsored a party of games in the local hall on February first in honor of their high school curling team which travelled to Strathmore on January 26th and after winning five out of six successive games won the right to represent this area in the Southern Alberta High School playdowns in Calgary on February 8 and 9.

Returns from competitions, games and collection netted approximately $35.00, which will go toward paying the team's expenses in Calgary. The Mossleigh Curling Club announced that a grant of up to $25.00 would be approved by them to offset expenses, if it was needed, while the Hall Committee gave the use of the hall for this event. The parents of the boys presented them with sweaters, and the student's union gave their heroes tans. By their excellent attendance at the function, people of the district showed that they were all behind the curlers and that they wished them the best of luck in the competitions to come.

The team, consisting of Larry Androsch, skip; Donald Green, third; Jimmy Gillanders, second; and Bruce Gateman, lead; and made up out of a total male enrolment of five boys in this one-room high school, responded nobly to the good wishes rendered them. The teams competing at Strathmore were Milo, Cluny, Arrowwood, Carleton Place, Glenora, and Mossleigh.

parent company, who will serve as vice-president of the Vulcan company, and Hugh H. Clarke, Calgary sales manager, who will fill the office of secretary-treasurer.

The Vulcan company will acquire the central plant and complete gas distributing system in the town, including mains and other equipment and services valued at approximately $100,000, it was explained. The company's income is provided by fixed returns determined by the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners, taking into consideration adequate return on capital invested as well as maintenance, operating and depreciation costs, it is pointed out in the company's prospectus.

County Meeting on Feb. 16

Three County Councillors To Be Elected This Year

The first annual meeting of the ratepayers of the County of Vulcan No. 2 will be held in the L.O. O.F. Hall, Vulcan, on Saturday, Feb. 16, commencing at 1:00 p.m., according to notice given elsewhere in this issue.

Three county councillors, for Divisions 1, 3 and 6, are to be elected this year, and nominations will be received between three and four p.m. at the L.O.O.F. Hall on the same date. Councillors whose term of office had expired are Allan McLean (Division 1), Richard F. Clements (Division 3), and Jack Dietz (Division 6). Councillors named to represent these Divisions will be elected for a term of three years.

Nominations will also be received at the meeting for a trustee from Ward No. 4 of the Bassano Municipal Hospital District and for trustees from Ward No. 2 and Ward No. 3 of the Vulcan Municipal Hospital District.

C. H. Andrews has been appointed Returning Officer for the elections.

Vulcan Pucksters Defeat Nanton

The Vulcan Intermediates defeated Nanton by a score of 8-5 in a thrilling Foothills Hockey League fixture played in the Vulcan arena Sunday afternoon before a crowd of over 250 fans.

The Vulcan sextet took a 3-0 lead in the first period only to see it tied 3-3 at the end of the second. The ice was surprisingly good for such mild weather but as the third period opened both teams showed signs of fatigue, but the game ended without much display of the anticipated roughness which usually accompanies tired players and somewhat heavy ice.

In the final frame Vulcan came through with five tallies to Nanton's two and were able to force the play into the Nanton defending zone at frequent intervals. Play as a whole was fairly fast, thrilling, and displayed good team work.

This was the first Sunday hockey here for many years and one of the largest turnout of fans during that length of time was on hand for the encounter. It is likely that further Sunday games will be staged here.

Seek Support For Project

Red Cross F.U.A. Want Seed Cleaning Plant Here

At a recent meeting of the Red Cross F.U.A. Local, prospects of the establishment of a grain-cleaning station at Vulcan were discussed.

It was the general opinion that such a unit should be located in Vulcan, the county seat, and that it would be a great asset to the town and the surrounding districts. The support of other local organizations is needed before any action can be taken on the project and it is hoped that this support will be forthcoming.

One of the first steps to be taken to secure a seed-cleaning station here would be the establishment of an Agricultural Service Board by the County of Vulcan. Such Service Boards have either three or five members, appointed yearly by the County Council. When the Board consists of three members, one must be a member of the Council, one may be any ratepayer of the County, and the third member must be an officer of the Department of Agriculture, nominated by the minister of agriculture. If five members are required on the Board, two are members of the Council, two are ratepayers and the fifth is an officer of the Department. The Board acts in an advisory capacity to the County

King George VI Dies Suddenly

King George VI died in his sleep Feb. 13, at the age of 56, ending a 15 year reign that had made him one of Britain's most beloved kings. He had been suffering for some time from what was believed to be lung cancer, but his death, apparently from a blood clot, was unexpected.

He succeeded to the throne by his elder daughter, Elizabeth, who will reign "as Queen Elizabeth II."

Weatherman Pulls "Double-cross" on Ladies' Bonspiel

The weatherman played a "low-down trick" on the annual ladies' bonspiel scheduled to be held last weekend, when he brought forth 50-above weather instead of the 20-above temperatures forecast.

The bonspiel started on Friday according to schedule and a few games were played before heavy ice and forecasts of continued mild weather forced the decision to stop.

Present plans are to continue the bonspiel from where it was left off as soon as ice is available and the date does not conflict with other bonspiels.

Telephone Co. Re-elects Officers

At the annual meeting of the Thigh Hill Mutual Telephone Co., officers were re-elected as follows: Earl Erickson, president; A. R. Mainland, vice-president; Robert Todd, O. M. Roe and Roy Deal, directors.

It was reported that five miles of line had been repaired last year and it was decided to have a work party this spring to complete the necessary work on the line. Subscribers on this line feel it is one of the best rural lines in the district, but expressed dissatisfaction at the service presently being received through the Vulcan telephone exchange.

The Weather

This Thursday marked the 12th day of unbroken mild weather, with daytime temperatures around the 40 to 45 above mark.

New Alberta Licence Plates

The new 1952 Alberta licence plate is shown above. It is white on a black background and the numbers and letters are designed so that they will glow after dark with reflected light in the same manner as the new Alberta highway signs. The new plates are of a "permanent" type and will be used for two or three years depending on their life. The year is designated by the figures "52" with slots provided in which tabs for future years can be affixed. The color of the year tab will change every year. Each plate will have four numbers and one letter, with the letter in the middle position. Plates for 1952 will be in a series 10A10 to 99Y99, omitting the letters "I", "O", and "Q" because of their similarity to numbers.

"Special" car licence numbers will be discontinued this year, according to the provincial government's motor vehicle branch.

With the end of special numbers, the government also is discontinuing the transfer of licence plates from one car to another. Even if a car is sold, the licence plates will remain with it.

Previously, Alberta motorists have been able to reserve "special" numbers from year to year and choose numbers which repeat their telephone or house address numbers, lucky or sentimental numbers and so on.

However, the number of plates issued well over 153,000 last year has made it impossible to continue issuing special numbers. The abolition of special numbers will end delay at the wickets.

The new licence plates—which go on sale late in March and must be bought by April 15—will have no low numbers or no telephone numbers. Car owners who have had special numbers for years will take whatever plate they can get this year.

Jensen was held by all who knew her. She was interested in church work and did knitting for many years for the Red Cross. Her death is widely mourned.

She was born in Germany on March 19, 1873 and moved to Iowa before coming to Carmangay in 1910. Since retiring from the farm in 1947 she made her home in town.

Rev. Gehring read the 19th psalm and chose as his text the passage from Revelations starting at the seventh chapter. Hymns were Jesus Saviour, Pilot Me and Abide With Me.

Interment was beside her husband in Mountain View Cemetery, Lethbridge.

Pallbearers were Bright Robertson, John Hubka, Neal Oatts, Vilas Teskey, Jim Lee and Sid Collier. She is survived by two sons, Jack of Drumheller and Otto of Calgary; three daughters, Mrs. Martha Nelson and Mrs. Whittle of Carmangay and Mrs. Hedwig Roosa of Ponoka; two grandchildren and two sisters and a brother in Germany.

Another Old-Timer Passes

Andrew Howarth, 83, passed away in the Carmangay Hospital on Jan. 21, after being in failing health for some time.

The late Mr. Howarth was born in Idaho and came to Carmangay in 1914, acquiring land south-east of town. At one time he owned the Carmangay Hall, which later became the community hall. He was unmarried.

Surviving are two nephews, Syd Scaman at Claresholm and Ben Scaman at Banff. A brother, Ralph Howarth predeceased him in 1950. He was also predeceased by a sister.

The funeral services were held in Claresholm on the following Friday with Ringrose Funeral Home of Claresholm in charge.

A Bank Gets A New Client . . .

By R. J. Deachman

My grandson was in town a few days ago—still is, as a matter of fact. He confided to me that he had saved a bit of money, wanted me to take him to the bank. He pinches odd bits out of his allowance, puts them away for a rainy day. Though why a boy of his age should ever expect a rainy day is more than I can tell.

I thought one time he intended to buy a farm but now I am not sure what he intends to do. Anyway he wanted me to introduce him to the manager of a bank. I did that but as a matter of fact a boy needs no introduction to a bank. If he has a few dollars the bank will accept it, keep it for him, pay him a bit of interest on it, give him the service they would proffer to J. Pierpont Morgan or Betty Green in their prime.

Who knows, there might come a day when my grandson might be rich. Scarce chance it's not in the blood! We went down to the bank together. I introduced him to the Manager. He was a tall, happy, good looking chap. He could not have given this young 12-year-old greater attention if some day he expected him to be a director of the bank.

He took us to the Savings Department and suggested that after we had completed our financial business the Manager of the Department would take us to the basement and show us the vaults. The Manager wanted his guests to know how carefully this great bank looked after the interests of its depositors.

That was good business. This boy, John is his first name, will tell of his adventures to his boy friends. Boys of his age love to draw long oows before their young companions. This deposit, the first he ever made, was a curious assortment. To my surprise it totaled $26.00. Here is his own statement of accumulated funds—later verified by the bank. He must have labored about two years on the task. I was astonished at the $4.50 in one cent pieces, but he told me he had more at home. I wanted to know why he did not bring them along. His reply was that he wanted them as a start for a new pile.

450.....	cents $ 4.50
60.....	5 3.00
6.....	25 1.50
2.....	1.00 2.00
1.....	5.00 5.00
1.....	10.00 10.00
TOTAL.....	$26.00

That's a step on the road to affluence.

Youngsters like to be treated as grown-ups. They are sensitive at that age. To my grandson this was a great adventure, as great as if somebody had given me a ticket to Washington with an appointment for a private chat with Winston Churchill. My grandson will never forget the name of that bank. It is a big thing in his memory and yet some people speak of banks as soulless institutions. That may be true but bankers have warm hearts.

We went down to see the vaults. I was surprised, John was astonished. To him they looked like mammoth fortresses. They are protected by every possible device. The only thing the youngster could do was to stare at them and say: "Gee, wouldn't it be a tough job to open that." He wanted to see a bond. They showed him one for $10,000. He wanted to see their biggest bills. He held in his hand a package of notes, each worth $1,000. He was gloriously happy. These are memories which will abide with him on and on through the distant decades which may lie before him.

New Soil Chemical

Considerable publicity has been given in many farm papers to a new chemical which is known as Krillium. This substance has been developed by chemists at the Central Research Laboratories at the Mansanto Chemical Company of Dayton, Ohio. This chemical belongs to the family known as polyelectrolytes. This family of chemicals are characterized by molecules which carry electrical charges, usually negative.

Many claims are being made for Krillium, concerning its beneficial effect to the soil, the chief benefit deriving from an improvement of soil structure. It has been claimed that when Krillium is applied to a soil it will remain loose and friable thereby greatly increasing the water absorption and the aeration of the soil. When this takes place there will be a lessened tendency for a soil to bake or crust following a heavy rain. Since the water holding capacity of the soil is increased, its susceptibility to water erosion would be lessened. Soil aeration is quite an important factor in low lying soils as such soils tend to become water logged and exclude sufficient oxygen to supply the nourishing bacteria which are essential to change natural occurring soil nitrogen into a form that can be taken up by the roots of the plant.

Krillium came under discussion at the recent meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Early tests conducted in the U.S. were reported on. The reports received were extremely favorable. These tests, which have not been conducted over a sufficient period of time for conditions to be conclusive, were very promising but are looked upon as merely an indication of what the substance Krillium may be able to accomplish in the hands of the practical farmer.

Even the research men of the Mansanto Chemical Company are of the opinion that several more years of research are necessary before Krillium can be recommended as a practical soil improving agent.

One group was sown at once, a second four weeks later, and a third after eight weeks storage. Germination was roughly the same at all moisture contents in the first lot. Germination decreased with rising moisture and length of storage in later tests. In the high moisture samples after two month storage, germination was almost destroyed by mold growth. (Our grain will doubtless carry a heavy load of ordinary mold spores this season, much of it being threshed from straw blackened by fungus growth).

Another test with seed wheat carrying 17, 18.5, 21.3 and 23.4 per cent moisture, was treated with a mercurial dust. One series was sown immediately, while a second series was sown after three weeks storage. A drop in germination of 2 percent, and over, occurred in the samples having the two highest moisture contents. It was shown that the seed treatment did not cause this fall in germination.

While weather conditions in Sweden are not directly comparable to those in Alberta, the above results indicate the need for drying grain intended for seed use; also the need for use of mercurial dusts in protecting seed from injurious fungus growths.

Dr. A. W. Henry of the University of Alberta, has just reported on studies of the effect of mercurial dusts on germination of stored tough and damp spring wheat. Results indicate that Ceresan, Ceresan M. and Half-ounce Leytosan, used at recommended rates, produce no injurious effects on germination after six to eighteen months under conditions similar to average farm storage. An article by Dr. Henry on seed treatment of tough and damp grain appears in the January 1952 issue of "The Press Bulletin". GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH

The greatest show on earth just now is the industrial production of the Western nations.

Canada has a big role in the show. And Canada's primary textile industry, with the largest manufacturing employment, the largest payroll, and with factories well diversified throughout the smaller communities, is a star player in the Canadian show.

Dominion Textile has an important part in all this.
